Stanley's Latest Work.

Mr. Stanley arrived in Paris much improved in health after his journey of nearly forty days from St. Paul de Loando, and he leaves this afternoon for Brussels, where he will make a report upon his mission and his labors in Africa during the last three years and a half to the Secretary-General of the International African Colonization Association. This body was formed at the instance of the enterprising King of the Belgians, shortly after the close of the Paris Exhibition in 1878; and the first act of the King after assuming the Presidency of the society was to send for the young explorer and to ask him if he would put his experience and energy into the labor of establishing stations along the tracts on the "Dark Continent" where settlements were most available and likely to bring forth good fruit for civilization. After due reflection Stanley concluded to accept the kind offer, which was eminently flattering in its character; and he understood from the first, as every one else connected with the association understood, that the object of the work was not so much immediate commercial gain as the civilizing and education of the savage or semi-savage populations. The company did not raise the flag of any particular nation, but adopted a banner of its own, under which all Mr. Stanley's marches have been made, and all his efforts have been undertaken. In connection with the central and parent society at Brussels, it was arranged that national committees should do as much as they saw fit; and contributions in money and equipment were made to the main expedition by various geographical and learned societies. Mr. Stanley had told the association that the Congo River was the main avenue of entrance to Central Africa, and that, so soon as the difficulties of getting around the great barriers were surmounted and steamers were set afloat on the Upper Congo, the results for both civilization and commerce would be colossal.

The young explorer therefore left for Africa, for the third time, in January, 1878, and since that time has been faithfully occupied in building roads around the falls, in organizing stations, each one of which is solidly fortified, supplied with rough but comfortable dwellings, and kept stocked with provisions and clothes from Europe. Guns and ammunition do not form any considerable part of the outfit; for Mr. Stanley's boast is that one can go anywhere in the country which he has settled up armed with nothing more formidable than a cane. The natives look upon him as a kind of demigod; for they have discovered that civilization, to which they at first felt such a dislike, means getting more food to eat, and getting it easier than in the old times.

Last evening the explorer gave me a picture of the description of a banquet which he gave some time ago to the 500 blacks and twenty eight whites directly and indirectly interested in the colonization scheme. The natives had never seen such a baronial festival before: Stanley had purposely determined to give them a Garzanti spread which they should remember to the end of their lives. There were quarters of beef roasted whole, vast wooden tubs filled with rice; butter and cheese from Europe; milk from the cows, which are kept at each of the stations; game in sacks and pyramids; and fruit in colossal heaps. The men were amazed, and sat, until the order to begin eating was given, with their fingers on their lips, and in a dazed, rapturous mood. When they had the signal to "fall to," those nearest the precious food plunged madly at it, but speedily found the men in the second rank crawling between their legs or leaping over their backs. But there was no quarreling; every one had enough; and all went away with largely-increased impressions in favor of the white man.

"We have done wonders since I last wrote you," said Mr. Stanley; "and our greatest accomplishment is the building and roofing of a long, handsome, well-arranged two-story house. The second story is looked upon by the primitive populations in the neighboring villages as something mysterious and magical—almost as a proof of divinity. I have been living in a tent for about two years, and have found it usually very comfortable; but we wish to get solid buildings put up as rapidly as possible. Well," he added with a sigh, "the road is built, and is as nearly perfect as such a thing in such a new country can be. The stations are established, and no one of them is in the slightest danger of being assailed. I have done my part, to the best of my ability, and my conscience is clean; and now I turn to the association and say to it, 'What will you do next?'" —Paris Cor. Boston Journal.

A Commercial Crisis in Russia.

Fears are expressed in Russia at the probability of another severe commercial crisis similar to that of 1873. The main cause is the remarkable drop in the price of corn which has resulted during the last few weeks from the abundance of the harvest in Western Europe and America. A little while ago merchants were readily buying up wheat at the rate of a ruble and forty copecks (2s. 10d.) the pood (thirty-six pounds), giving a quarter of that amount in cash as hard money to clinch the bargain. Suddenly the demand for corn from abroad ceased and the price dropped heavily, until a few days ago 85 copecks, or 1s. 8d., per pood was being refused on the exchanges of Russia. In this manner there are thousands of merchants in Russia who have bought corn for 2s. 10d. the pood, which they can not hope to sell for more than 18 pence, or little more than half that amount. How enormous the losses must be in consequence is illustrated by a remarkable piece of generosity on the part of Count Brantzky. All the corn on his estates, amounting to 800,000 poods, or over 10,000 tons, had been sold for a ruble and 40 copecks the pood, and when he found that the buyers could only obtain 80 copecks for it in the market, he released them from their contracts, thus relinquishing £50,000 at a stroke. Few persons, however, are of the magnanimous disposition of Count Brantzky, and if the present low prices prevail throughout the month the result must be almost universal bankruptcy in the Russian corn trade. Already, according to the Kioff correspondence of the Globe, the bankruptcies in that province amount to 6,000,000 rubles, although the crisis has hardly commenced there yet. The Novoe Vremya, in appealing to the Government for prompt assistance in the matter, declares that the competition of America in the corn trade has now attained such proportions as to menace the commercial fabric of Russia with ruin. But, in this instance at least, it would appear that another cause has been at work besides transatlantic rivalry. Fearing that the Egyptian conflict would develop into a serious European war, and that the harvest in Egypt would be lost, the corn importers of Western Europe made large purchases of Russian corn during the summer, thus causing prices to rise to an abnormal extent. Ignorant of the real reason of the demand, the buyers in Russia went on making extensive purchases until the sudden cessation of orders led them into their present predicament.—London News.

ILLINOIS is said to have more miles of railroad than any other state in the union.

Of the last three presidents of the United States it may be said that:

Hayes was counted in;
Garfield was bought in;
And Arthur was shot in.

Not one of them had a majority or plurality of the votes of the people.

The repeal of the internal tax law will throw nearly 3,000 office holders, able-bodied men and women out of employment on or before the first of July next. What a calamity that will be. What a host of exiled government orphans the country will have on hand in the near future.

If congress will pass the resolution before it calling on the pension office for a list of all persons on its books, and when it gets them lose no time in ordering them printed and posted in some public place, the post offices for instance, it cannot be long before the frauds are separated from the honest, and the deserving pensioner distinguished from the undeserving.

The suspension of operations by tobacco factories has caused perhaps ten thousand laborers, or more, in Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, to be thrown out of employment, and much suffering is the result. Tardiness of congressional action and the uncertainty of its character beget these unfortunate facts, and the subject should be disposed of by law-givers at the earliest practicable moment.

DESPITE the diminution of the indians their cost to the taxpayers of the land grows greater year by year. The cost of the indians from 1842, to 1862, was $26,722,797; the cost from 1862, to 1882, was $106,848,245. It will be observed that the fewer indians the more they cost and that the republican management of these people costs more than twice as much as when the democracy ruled the country. In every other department of the government the cost has been proportionately increased. Therefore the taxpaying populations are resolved upon a change and intelligent, honest republicans, as seen in the results of the late elections, concede the absolute necessity for this thorough revolution.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Beatty's glass works at Steubenville were badly damaged by fire on Sunday.

James Smyth & Co., manufacturers of gingham and cotton goods, Philadelphia, have failed.

David Hilderband was stabbed by a man named Seibel, at Columbus, Sunday, and is expected to die.

Sixteen thousand dollars' worth of lumber was destroyed by an ice gorge on the Allegheny river, Sunday.

It has been legally decided that a New York policeman who buys Sunday drinks is not good evidence against the saloon keepers, and in consequence the saloons will sell on Sunday with impunity.

A Freight train on the Georgia division of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad smashed through a trestle and caused a great wreck. A brakeman was killed and the conductor's leg broken.

Lucius W. Pond, of Worcester, Mass., sent to prison in March, 1876, for twelve years for forgery and embezzlement, has been pardoned. He was at the time of his arrest, a state senator, and one of the most prominent men in Worcester.

George Demaster and Jerry B. McCarty, convicts, employed in the shoe shop of the penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo., quarreled Saturday about possession of a table, and before the guards could prevent it, the latter stabbed the former, inflicting mortal wounds.

State of Lewis at Large.

An amateur entertainment was given at the court house, last week, the proceeds if any, to be given to the poor. Altogether it was in excess of many the professionals have inflicted on the public, developing the fact that we have undeveloped histrionic and imitative talent for the future boards. Mr. Jas. Pugh's five year old daughter stepped before the lights with the nerve and confidence of an old stager, surprising a large audience with the excellence of her delivery.

The crowning exhibit of the evening was the personation of Widowhood by Miss Mollie Fitch. She comprehended the lesson and acted the character in its highest perfection.

Winter keeps apples, seasons them, a clouded meerschaum, a vase around which the scent of the rose still hangs; all these have a rare ripe evanescent flavor that suggests, but can not express the charm of widowhood.

You know Mr. Editor, we have married two and know a young widow is perhaps the most interesting object in nature or in art. She represents experience without its wrinkles or its gray hair. She is maternally beautiful and maidenly freedom combined. She is graceful with a laughing eye. Sorrow in a house of festival, a silver moon in a sable cloud; all this was Miss Fitch's own creation, and imitable acting as a widow. She was too sweet for anything. Like all good things they can only be created at a great sacrifice. So she at 16 and the man at 60 won't do to go off. We could not present the bouquet under such charming influences and confess we were overwhelmed with her grace, voice and luscious eyes and the natural acting of the widow.

The comic opera was rendered in style and eloquence of voice that required a repetition—duets also occasioned deserving applause. So we speak in time. When the Paris of America wants native born actors come to the state of Lewis.

Christmas eve was appropriately celebrated at Concord by the Union Sunday school scholars with songs, moral recitations, brief reviews of Sunday school lessons. This is probably the best drilled Sunday school with its chances in the state. We enjoyed this new style of entertainment as best adapted to instruct children with the sacred word. The closing scenes of presents to each scholar was brilliant and a merry termination.

Our old masonic friend R. H. Fisher is setting them up on twigs, requiring the outfit of another day to keep up the good stock.

The extensive miller and merchant, Lank Ashenbush, is dumping sacks of first brand of flour. Its a boy and nobody will suffer in Concord for food or fuel as its the first born.

This is as good a place to return our gratitude to the donors remembering the BULLETIN as any other source. The old don't forget to warm our feet and hands with socks and mitts. The Christmas trees bear fruit in neckties, gloves, handkerchiefs and small tokens from the children. All of these mementoes are appreciated and accepted and valued as more precious than fine gold, yet it would conduce to extend happiness, if we knew the names of those remembering us in our declining years.

Rob. Morris, of Kentucky, has pledged himself to prove the falsity of the story told by the late Thurlow Weed that Morgan was murdered by members of the Masonic order.

A Model Poet Says:

Long had I looked and searched and sought,
Both Stoves and Ranges, too, I bought;
And every kind on earth I tried,
And yet with none felt satisfied,
Hope shed at last one dazzling ray,
The "Omaha" I saw one day;
I found at length the thing I sought—
I went—examined it—and bought.

CHORUS.

The "Omaha!" The "Omaha!"
To buy it is house-keeping law,
Search through the north, south, east and west,
The "Omaha" you'll find the best.

LAST Friday was the shortest day of the year.

We would like to hear the Eagle's reasons why the internal revenue tax should not be removed from tobacco.

There will be a grand family matinee by the Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe at Washington opera house, on Monday afternoon, January 1st.

ELDER A. N. GILBERT, of Indiana, will preach at the Christian church, next Sunday morning and evening. Everybody is invited to hear him.

The Flemingsburg Democrat has been sold by Mr. James J. Burns, the proprietor, to Mr. H. Duley, of the Times. The two papers, we learn, are to be consolidated.

THE sheriff to-morrow morning at nine o'clock will offer at public sale the stock of liquors, cigars, tobaccos, groceries, etc., belonging to the estate of the late George H. Wheeler. A lot of bar fixtures will be sold at the same time. See advertisement.

JOHN WALLINGFORD, of East Maysville, on Tuesday, built a small furnace and prepared to raise steam by heating water in a tightly stopped can. His experiment was successful but not very satisfactory to himself, as the can burst, scalding him severely. He is a sadder and wiser boy than he was.

Hog Question Solved.

TUCKAHOE RIDGE, Dec. 25, 1882.—Ed. Bulletin: This is my answer to the hog question. The farmer you speak of killed thirty-five hogs in six days and killed an odd number each day as follows: He killed seven the first four days and five the fifth. On the sixth day he killed the remaining two of his own and one he borrowed from a neighbor, making an odd number each day. FARMER.

Dough Nuts.

A young lady of this city, who is celebrated for the excellence of her cooking, sends the following recipe for making dough nuts to the BULLETIN: Three eggs; three cups of sugar; one pint of sweet milk; butter the size of an egg; cinnamon and nutmeg to the taste; two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; flour enough to stiffen so as to handle and roll about as thin as for biscuit.

The Cabin Creek Homicide.

The particulars of the killing of Penn Lyons, on Christmas day, by "Col." Crawford, from the best information we can get are as follows: About a year ago the two young men, who were visiting the same young lady, had a quarrel and had been on unfriendly terms since. On Monday both had been drinking and accidentally met at W. J. Tully's store at Springdale. The quarrel was renewed, but the young men were separated by their friends. As Lyons was being removed from the room, it is alleged Crawford fired at him the ball entering Lyon's head killing him instantly. Crawford was arrested but on Tuesday escaped from the officers and is now at large.

Wooden Wedding.

A pleasant event on the 20th inst was the celebration by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McClanahan, of East Maysville, of the fifth, or wooden anniversary of their marriage. A number of guests were most pleasantly entertained and enjoyed to the fullest extent the occasion. The following is a list of the presents received by Mr. and Mrs. McClanahan, from their friends: Heury R. McClanahan—handsome willow rocking chair.
Misses Jorger—rocking chair.
John C. Brodt—saw cutter.
Mr and Mrs Newton Rudy—washtub and board.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mr. Charles Field Griffin, of New York, is in the city.

The Hon. E. C. Phister returned from Washington on Saturday.

Miss Estella Jordan, of Louisville, will arrive to-day to visit Miss Delia Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Schreiber, of Cincinnati, are visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. Lucy Cobb Lape, who has been visiting her relatives in Maysville, returned to Cincinnati on Tuesday.

Miss Mamie Connell, a fascinating young lady from Paris is visiting friends in Maysville, very much to the delight of one young gentleman that we know of.

The marriage of Miss Anna Douglas January to Stanley Fleetwood, of Chicago, will be solemnized at the residence of Hon. Robert A. Cochran, on Wednesday evening, January 3rd.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Anthony & Ellis' Uncle Tom's Cabin company has achieved a wonderful success the present season. Overflowing houses have everywhere greeted it. It has more original novel features, and more talent than any troupe of the kind now traveling can boast of. The full company will appear in this city on Monday evening, January 1st, and at a family matinee in the afternoon. If you fail to witness the entertainment you will miss much enjoyment.

COUNTY POINTS.

FERN LEAF.

The ladies of the cooking club gave another of their most enjoyable entertainments on Friday evening, at the home of Miss Sue Worthington, a member of the club. The meeting was, if anything, more enjoyable than any of the former ones, as all will testify who were fortunate enough to be there. The ladies present were as follows: Misses Evelyn Smith, Manie Slack, Carrie McAtee, Sue Worthington, Mollie McAtee, Julia Worthington, Lettie Wood, Fannie Wood, Burtie Sallee, Rina Savage, Daisy Best, Alice Lloyd, Lida Lloyd, and Nona Calhoun.

The gentlemen present were: Alile McAtee, Chas. McAtee, J. A. and E. C. Slack, Chas. and Ed. Sallee, Thos. Saddler, Thos. R. Phister, T. F., T. E., and Wm. Worthington, W. P. Maxey, Hays Thomas, Wyatt Owens, T. L. Holton, Ras Pickett, Wm. McIlvaine, Wm. Kearney, Rector Savage, Thos. Browning, Jas. Wear, Peter Parker, John Parker, M. Walton, Henry Lloyd, and Charles Wallingford.

GERMANTOWN.

Mr. James Dimmitt, Peed Browning, Wm. Thompson and Balle Pinckard and their families after a sojourn of two years in Texas, arrived here last week to remain.

Miss Girdie Pollock, Messrs. Harry Savage, John Walton, Henry Sheeler, Garret Holton, Dr. J. C. Browning and Prof. Bullington, are here for the holidays.

Prof. Cowherd, of this school, is spending the holidays at LaGrange.

Squire Coleman's abnormal academy, of Seven Bench, takes a week holiday.

T. P. Insko, after a ten months sojourn, in Nebraska, arrived here last week.

Elder Pollard is holding a meeting at McKendrie's chapel near Bridgeville.

There will be a Christmas treat for the Sunday school at the Christlau church Thursday night.

Married, by Esq. Beasley of Aberdeen, on Dec. 25th, 1882, Mr. Lawrence Power to a Miss Braveret. We offer our congratulations. U. R. SMILING.

MAYSLEICK.

A. G. Wilson returned home last week.

The flies were buzzing about last Saturday.

C. W. Cook, of Cincinnati, is stopping at the Stone Wall house.

We were very kindly invited to partake of a boss dinner at Thomas Kilgore's last Monday, but business prevented.

Miss Bachman, of Tennessee, now at Sayre Institute, is visiting Miss Mollie Piper.

A. P. Gooding and Ben. Myall, made a flying trip to Minerva last Sunday.

Squire John D. Raymond had an unusually large docket last Friday. Several of the legal talent were present from Maysville.

Enos Myall had a reunion of all his children and grand children last Monday, numbering thirty in all.

The Misses White, of Texas, are the guests of Miss Maggie Laytham.

Miss Mattie Gathier, the charming young lady from Lewisburg spent last Saturday at the Stone Wall house.

A little son of John Mullaney, died in this place on the 18th inst., and was buried at Washington.

William Hite, white, for carrying concealed weapons, and Amos Davis, colored, were arrested and taken to the Maysville jail Monday night.

It would seem from the papers that every body had Christmas goods except the blacksmiths and livery men.

Miss Loula Woolums, of Fayette, is the guest of Miss Myra Myall.

A. R. Fowler and wife returned last week from an extended bridal tour out west. They are now putting in the time eating big dinners. Thomas M. his brother, gave them a grand reception on the 19th.

Miss Anna Myall, after an absence of four months, visiting many of the northern and western cities, returned home last week to the joy of her many friends.

The following young gentlemen are home from their various schools spending the holidays: Abe Gooding, from Kentucky Military Institute, Willie Thompson, from Lexington, and Thomas and Magnus Hopper, from North-middletown. ROMEO.

STONE LICK.

Christmas gift!

"Eat drink and be merry" is the order of the day.

The Mt. Gilead and Lindsey turnpike road is about completed.

H. C. Stone is about well again.

Howard Farrow has made a nice drive to his residence from the pike. It is quite an improvement.

The store at Mt. Gilead is doing a thriving business under the management of our young friend, Mr. Higgins.

H. C. Stone has built two tobacco barns and two corn cribs the past season. Both barns are full of tobacco but the corn cribs have not been filled yet.

A wind storm passed over the southern portion of the county Wednesday last, doing considerable damage to hay stacks and fodder shocks.

Elder J. Taylor Moore, of Georgetown, Ky., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charley Duke.

Elder J. Taylor Moore will preach at Mt. Gilead on the 5th Saturday and Sunday of this month.

Mr. Sayers has lost two children with diphtheria and has three more sick.

Elder J. H. Wallingford preached at Bethany last Thursday evening, and at the close of the services married William L. Bean to Miss Lyons. We wish them success in all their undertakings.

The people of Milford had a Christmas tree Christmas eve. Elder Joseph N. Barbee was present.

Our friend, Noah Bateman, visited his friends at Mayslick the first of this week.

He who steals one's reputation steals all that makes life desirable, and the slanderer ought to be spurned by all good people.

Miss Mary Gordon is very low. Her friends are somewhat alarmed.

Mrs. Anthony Laytham is also sick.

Mrs. Collins gave a nice Christmas dinner to some of her select friends. Oysters, turkeys, cakes and wine were in abundance, testifying that our fair and accomplished hostess understands getting up an inviting entertainment. May she live her three score and ten and give many more such parties and we be among the honored. REPORTER.

MURPHYSVILLE.

Christmas has passed but the effects are still present with some. Our village is small and almost unknown. It seems, but Christmas times got things boiling, and among all the happenings we could not hold noticing the following:

Miss Doela Rhodes is visiting friends at Rectortville this week.

An oyster supper and dance at John Gault's Tuesday night.

Oyster supper at Richard Keunard's Friday night.

Charley Crawford ate turkey with his "duck" at Orangeburg, Monday.

Mr. Brookling, of Winfield, Kansas, is visiting his brother, Mr. Ham Brookling. He is a boot and shoe merchant of that place and will return to his business in a few days.

It is reported that most of our young ladies will "swear off" chewing gum next Monday. Be it so.

Otto Mullin, of Hoosierdom, who is spending the winter with relatives here, returned to this place Saturday evening after a two weeks' go-as-you-please through Mason and Lewis.

Rev. Hanford, Methodist minister of this circuit, delivered a lecture at the Methodist church Saturday night to an appreciative audience. The admission was ten cents and the proceeds went to the church.

The capital event of the holidays will be a masquerade party given by Misses Annie and Minnie Stevenson Wednesday night, which will be noticed next week.

An oyster supper and taffy pulling was given at the residence of Squire Gault Monday evening for the benefit of the M. E. church. A good crowd was in attendance and every body got "taffy" to their heart's content.

John E. Rhodes, a farmer near this village, sold his farm last week to T. T. Worthington, consideration $3,600.

Aaron Gaff, colored, who, some weeks past, was accidentally shot, necessitating the amputation of a leg, which operation was performed by Dr. H. K. Adamson, of Maysville, and Drs. Gault and Pollitt, of this place, is almost well.

Miss Bertie Hudson, a charming young lady of Flemingsburg, is spending the holidays with her many friends in this vicinity.

Dr. H. M. Pollitt, after twenty years absence from this place, took up his residence in our midst again last fall, as a partner of Dr. J. W. Gault, and we are glad to say is gaining a good practice, which he richly deserves. He has had 25 years experience as a practicing physician which is as good a recommendation as the people of the community could wish.

Murphysville undoubtedly has the poorest excuse for a school house of any place in the county. It is a board shanty about 15x25 feet into which over 50 scholars are jammed, jammed and crammed, which is entirely too many for one master to manage and give the proper attention to each grade. The front end of this house (?) looks like it had been struck with a cyclone, the fence is of it "has been" and the entire property looks like it needed a resurrection to improve its appearance. What is needed here, and which can well be afforded, is a good substantial two-story brick school house and two good teachers. Then there would be ample room for all that would attend and after being graded and divided, the teachers could give more time and attention to their scholars, which would be much better for teachers, pupils and patrons. That the present condition of things is a disgrace to the community, as well as the county, is plainly visible to any one with only ONE EYE OPEN.

Torpedo Warfare.

The weapons used for under-water warfare are called "torpedoes."

There are two kinds of torpedoes: those that are anchored in one place and those that swim about in the water. Of those that are anchored, there are also two kinds. One kind consists of great iron boxes filled with dynamite and sunk in the water at particular places. They rest in the mud, or on the sand and stones, till they are ready to be fired, when they blow up or explode with terrible effect; and if a ship happens to be passing over one of them, she is sure to be torn to pieces. The other kind have a float anchored just out of sight under water, while the torpedo rests on the bottom. These, too, when they explode, destroy anything that happens to be near.

There are two ways of firing these ground torpedoes: in one there is a wire, carefully protected from the water, leading from the torpedo to the shore. The soldiers in charge of it can send electricity through this wire and set fire to the dynamite, and thus fire the torpedo. The torpedo is lost and destroyed, but the broken wire can be pulled ashore, and used again on another torpedo. The second method is to fasten to the torpedo a wooden float. If one of the enemy's ships passes over such a torpedo and happens to strike and push aside the float that is anchored just over it, this will also fire the torpedo, for the chain or rope that anchors the float is connected with the torpedo, and any strain or pull on the rope discharges it. In this way the ship itself may fire the torpedo, and thus become an agent in its own destruction.

The swimming torpedoes are of two kinds. One of these swims like a fish, and, if it strikes its nose against a ship, explodes, and sinks the vessel by tearing a terrible hole in the bottom. Another kind can also swim, but it carries fastened to its tail a long wire, which it drags through the water wherever it goes. By means of this wire, the soldier who stands at the end, on the shore, or the sailor on board ship, can make the fish turn to the right or left, dive, turn around, go backward, or come home again when it is wanted. Besides this, the fish will blow up if it strikes against the enemy's ship, or whenever the man at the wire wishes to fire it. The Government will not tell us how such a wonderful thing can be done, but you may be sure that these fish-torpedoes are strange fellows. They seem to be able to do everything that a fish can do, and more, for when they get angry they can burst out into a frightful passion and send the water flying into the air for hundreds of feet, and woe to the sailors who are near! Torpedo, ship and men go the bolt in a volcano of fire and water. Besides these anchored and swimming torpedoes, there is another kind called spar-torpedoes, so named because they are placed on the ends of spars or booms that run out under water from the bows of small boats. The boats rush up to the side of the big ship, in the dark, and explode the torpedo underneath, thus sinking the vessel.—Charles Barnard, in St. Nicholas.

—A frog fell into a pail of milk in a Connecticut town one night recently, and in the morning was found sitting upon a roll of fresh butter. A local paper says that the sole explanation is that, in trying to extricate himself, he had, by diligent and continuous strokes of his long legs, churned the milk into butter.—New Haven Register.

—Gardeners at Potsdam, N. Y., raise little violet trees by preventing the plants from blooming for several years, and having them grow upright by removing the lower leaves and shoots. These little trees, about fourteen centimeters high, are very pretty. Some of the gardeners winter as many as 20,000 pots of violets.

—The Michigan Farmer recommends cutting away the old tops from the asparagus beds; clean off all weeds, and cover the grounds with a liberal mulch of good manure. Early in spring fork over the surface, allowing the short, rotten portion of the manure to remain, but raking off the coarse, strawy material.

FOR SALE.

HAVING determined to go west I now offer for sale my entire stock of
